What is a photovoltaic mounting system?

Photovoltaic mounting systems (also called solar module racking) are used to fix solar panels on surfaces like roofs, building facades, or the ground. [1] These mounting systems generally enable retrofitting of solar panels on roofs or as part of the structure of the building (called BIPV). [2]

Do solar installers need a license?

Solar photovoltaic (PV) systems must adhere to the National Electrical Code (NEC), so a solid foundation in electrical knowledge is essential for solar installers. If your solar installation company operates in numerous states, it's essential to have the proper solar contractor license to work legally in the given state.

Does Wyoming have a specialized license for photovoltaic and solar thermal systems?

Those proposing to perform work in specific municipality are encouraged to contact that municipality for the actions required to be taken per the local rules. Wyoming does not have specialized licensing for photovoltaic and solar thermal systems.

Do Solar Contractors need a license in New Jersey?

In addition to the HIC registration, solar contractors may also need to obtain an Electrical Contractor License. This license is issued by the New Jersey Board of Examiners of Electrical Contractors and is required for contractors who perform electrical work as part of their solar installations. Best Cities for Solar Power in New Jersey

Do Solar Contractors need a license in Virginia?

The Virginia Department of Professional and Occupational Regulation offers a specialty known as Alternative Energy Systems (AES). Virginia solar contractors seeking this specialty on their license must pass a special exam. Licensed contractors of Class A, B, or C are eligible to declare the AES specialty.

Does Maine license PV installers?

Maine does not license PV installers. However, any person installing PV systems in Maine must hold an electrician's license suited for the project issued by the Electricians' Examining Board. Note: Efficiency Maine is no longer a division of the Public Utilities Commission.
